Table of Contents

"Inasmuch as many have undertaken to compile a narrative of the things which have been accomplished among us, just as they were delivered to us by those who from the beginning were eye witnesses and ministers of the Word, it seemed good to . . . (us) also, having followed all things closely for some time past, to write an orderly account for you . . . that you may know the truth concerning the things of which you have been informed."
(Luke 1:1-4)

So runs, in substance, the introduction to one of the most famous books ever written. It is with a feeling of respect that we appropriate these lines, with which to begin our historical sketch of the Dragon. What follows reflects the "Contrasts of Time" over the past fifty years, as seen by the Dragon staff editors and advisor.

Jane —
 Well, what a good year! It's too bad
 you couldn't stay, but maybe I'll see ya this year. Best of luck to my "co-war-conspirator!"
 Love —
 Chris Q.

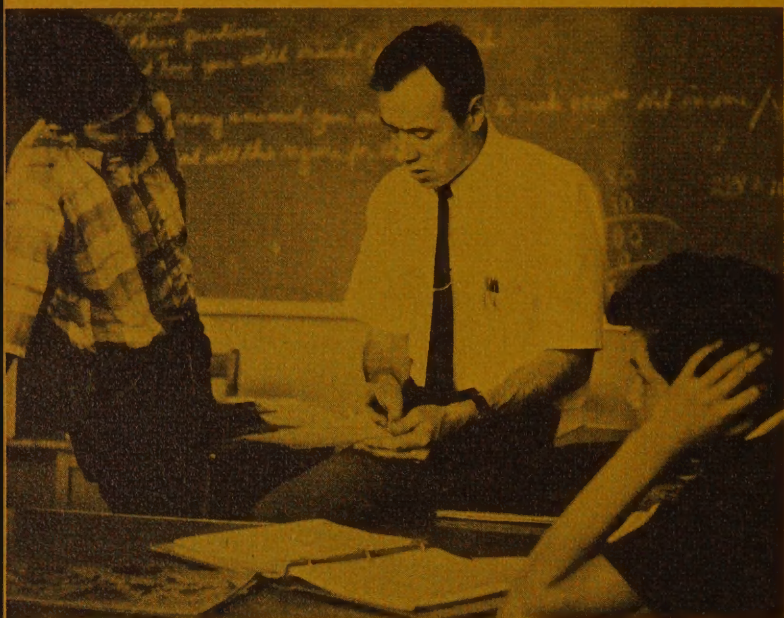

Where the "My-ness" is . . .

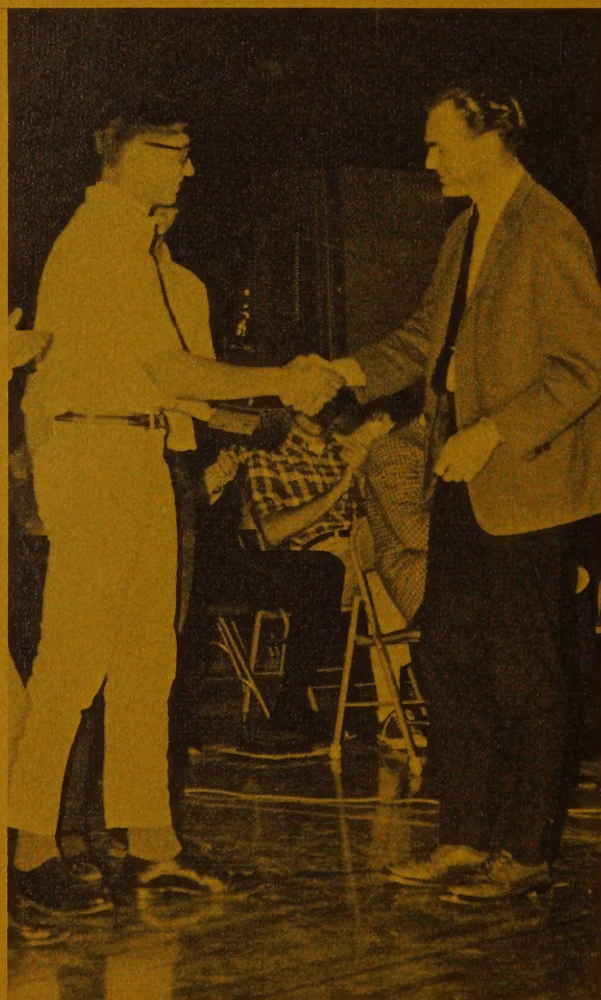

Through modes of expressions a self portrait is found. Once discovered, "What's your bag?". Be it role playing Joan of Arc — an expression of convictions; a new design — the "bottling" of creativity; competition — the terrible burden of "carrying the ball"; reliving the past — by "Trying to Remember"; true physical expression— reaction to time; nonconformity — an ageless working out of "Hair" . . . It's HAPPENING HERE, AND NOW!

The learner and

... an intimacy that deepens with time; not a loss of respect, only a freedom to explore, to create; a friendly looseness in discussion between learner and the learned. A congratulating handshake, the con-

the learned . . .

cern of a "not so old" faculty member, the explosive frustration of a poor mark, a closeness best described as "man to man" . . . This is school life . . .

"Dragon-unity" and awareness . . .

A class bonded together for a common cause. The merging of "common folk" creating a oneness of sound. Silvercreek's, "It's Not Too Late" to get the message across. A cremated "Wesley Lion" bearing the brunt of Homecoming hostilities. Brash strains of "Stripper" bringing grins of awareness to a half-time crowd. Opportunities of group expression facilitated by fifty years of change.

From seniors to adults . . .

Twelve years of anticipation, of waiting, of looking forward to the day of graduation. You're now adults — ready to face the world. Be it a career in education, business or one of homemaking, it's up to you, because it's your choice!

Time out for . . .

A common student encounter, "the pause that refreshes," education through entertainment . . . Pre-game recognition and excitement, "battle-scarred" dignitaries offering fruits of experience, an exchange of common "bags" from uncommon youth, involving students in cut-and-dried" subjects, intra-school fraternization before the big game . . . DHS took a break.

STAFF AND ACADEMICS

Vital to any student's experiences is that which occupies 90 percent of his school life — the classroom. Similarity between "now" and "then" rests solely with four walls and a door. Today's learners do so using techniques and materials unheard of in "those" days. Gone are the straight neat rows of desks; the drab, bare walls. Gone too is the silent, individual study; the dunce stool in the corner.

ADMINISTRATION

"The Public" of Public Schools

Shouldering serious responsibilities were our three top authorities at Dallas High. To more effectively meet specialized student needs, they undertook curriculum changes, scheduling of classes, and arranging extra-curricular activities. Their planning and coordinating duties demanded hours of devoted labor. As a part of their assignments, many occasions found them among the students.

Finance! Teacher Militancy! Rising educational costs! This trio confronted board members at each of their monthly meetings and eventually led to a district-wide raising of standards. These included approval of higher base pay for teachers, video tape program for the district and notoriety over an agreement with students concerning the vandalism fund.

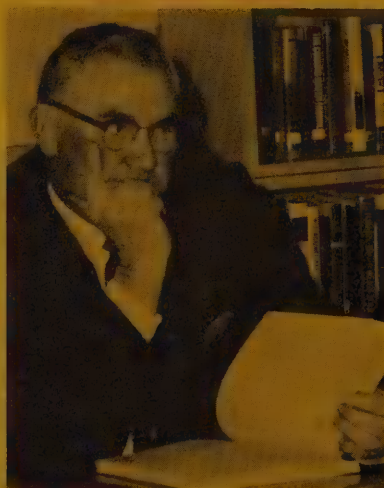

Mr. Ray Klappenbaugh, superintendent of the Dallas school district, congratulates Sandee Henson for her achievement in Distributive Education.

Educators Are Human

1968-69 was the year of faculty organization. For the first time in DHS history a faculty senate was elected and took office to lead the educators in exploring a myriad of problems, ranging from intra-school communication to the underground press. With Mr. Bill Fisher as chairman the teachers attempted to work out school evaluation and establish a course for change. School routine was broken by a "Fall Bash" and a "Spring Splash," and most of the staff "endured" several days of lost time to a heavy snow storm.

From left: Mr. Delmar Kerber: Aloof and drolly witty. Organized approach. A way of putting the message across. "... and he was really pretty ticked off." Mr. Robert Cantonwine: Sincere and calmly dignified in the classroom. "In that particular regard..." Or agitated and excitedly commanding on the gym floor. Mr. Russell Smith: Well prepared, taking life in his stride. A man of mystery, subtle humor and penetrating insight. His simple policy: "It's your education." Mr. Robert Opperman:

Mr. Charles Kearney: Inquisitive. Interested in people and their response to idea. Stimulating thought to obtain their best. "Loosen up... Put yourself into it."

Mr. Dewey Tuttle: A changeable mind of his own. Smiling and shrugging his shoulders. A respect for student opinion and an understanding of youth. "No, I'm not kidding."

Mrs. Nancy Rosenbalm: A musical perfectionist. "Get into the mood!" Impulsive, energetic, and persevering... "Don't be discouraged, you're doing fine. Right on!"

Mrs. Nancy Warner: Understanding, thoughtful, good disposition, witty, best all around. "Since you didn't get in a timed-write, I just won't bring my coin collection tomorrow."

Mr. Ed Caillier: Independently minded, firm in class; easy-going out. High expectations. "Gettin' slimmer all the time."

Mr. Albert Wagner: Available and willing to help. Patiently explaining and repeating. Kind, but insistent. "Your debits must equal your credits."

Miss Marsha Anderson: "Well, I can't help it. I try to be a good teacher, but with you guys it's so darn hard." Friendly, great traveller, pretty tan.

Mrs. Margaret Kelley: Urging students to finish their assignments. "Okay, get those stories in." Yet cheery and agreeable. "En bien (all right)."

Mr. James Johnston: Real-life experience in Spanish culture. Offering wise, fatherly advice. A sense of humor, sly and invincible.

Mr. Dave Breeden: Involved in Civil War study and artillery. "All right men, let's scout around and see what we can turn up." "Sideburns" shows Sea Bees movies to his architecture classes.

Mr. Robert Peppley: Bachelor Corvette driver. Quiet and cool-headed. A delightful blush. Smiling in amusement. "You bunch of meatballs!"

Mr. Brooks Wagner: "You bunch of hon-yockers, get to work." Easy to get along with. "You rascal." Craftsman and pro.

Mr. William Foote: An extremely opinionated nonconformist. Renowned for his handlebar mustache. An Arizona fan, at ease in his cowboy hat and boots. "Clod — a clod is a lump of dirt." Exceptional treatment.

Mr. Mark Sather: "Listen up, you meatballs! Go ask Mr. Peppley." Crazy about birds (Aves). Inward sense of humor. Teaches more than just biology.

Mr. Gary Thayer: Concerned about metals shop. "Clean up; get a broom." Knows what he is talking about. Speaks softly but carries a big stick.

Mr. Bruce Bolden: "Look, I've got an idea." Pixie House, loves forestry and conversation. Professional pride. Has a way with his students that works.

Mr. Robert Burnham: High expectations of agricultural program. Quick to laugh. Has air of professionalism.

FACULTY continued

Mr. Lando Friesen: Down-to-earth and thorough. A free and natural conversationalist. Sack lunch counselor. No needless sophistication. "Would you believe, five?"

Mr. Frank Kettleon: Reserved and unceremonious in manner. Capable disciplinarian. "Don't waste time." Decisive speaker. "Defensive driving is the only way to drive."

Mrs. Phyllis Hammer: First year teacher, newly-wed. Enthusiastic, bubbly and idealistic. "That's really neat!"

Mr. Kenneth Jacobson: Stretching to schedule numerous assemblies and activities. Striving to balance the financial aspects. Conversing with his head cocked to one side. "All right class, let's get back to work."

From left: Mr. William Fisher: Faculty president. Deep love of literature. Always worried about frost. Always a lack of books. Distinguished-looking. "I will never, ever . . ." Mr. Glenn Knight: Volunteering sage remarks. Warbling cheerfully. A philosophic turn of mind. "Oh, I don't know. Life's like that." Mr. Fred Staab: Calm and collected, carefree, takes things as they come; very expressive, bushy mustache. Unorthodox. Experimental, publishes Teacher Paper. "Feet." "Bummer." Mrs. Sharon Haget: Student teacher. Mr. Robert Schiopen: Informed and capable.

Highly contagious sense of humor. Wringing thought from students. Working overtime to get the job done. "Okay, it's a work day — let's get busy. Everything's under control?" Mr. Leroy Gilbert: Latest jokes, traveling van. "Speech is a business." Transfer from Nampa. Mr. James Fairchild: Establishing classroom policies not meant to be violated. Carefully evaluating. Respect for his students. A clever word-twister. "Hoody." An ominous twinkle in his eyes. "You characters."

FACULTY continued

Mrs. Ruby Dashiell: Faithful secretary to the principal, punching typewriter keys or recording telephone messages. In contact with the students. "Well, why are you late?" Sharing an office joke. "The natives are restless today!"

Mr. William Dressel: "Your a better man for it." Fun-loving, hard-working, easy-going and considerate. Takes it from the broadcasting booth.

Miss Shirley Sharpenberg: A new fashion in gym outfits. Pert blonde, always friendly. "Gee, that's swell." Easy going.

Mrs. Dorothy Ross: Always smiling, very efficient, hands on school purse strings. "If there's anything I can help you with . . ."

Mr. Ronald August: Self-confident and unrattled. A keen observer and master tease. "Well, you just take it that way." Intolerant of foolishness. "Okay you guys, listen up now!"

Mrs. Jean Miller: Bent intently over the sewing machine. Listening sympathetically to feelings expressed. Comically joining in. Serenely methodical. "... and you just pull it right on up. Now you're ready for the second step."

Mr. Edwin Jones: Always willing to help; ready to try and handle all situations. "What's up doc?" Intensely interested in students.

Miss Dessie McClay: "Were you just leaving?" A smile for everyone. Transfer from Tillamook. Deeply concerned about library function and purpose.

Mrs. Evelyn Rogers: Truly concerned counselor with a positive outlook. "Hey, that's great!" Helping students plan for their future. Facing human weaknesses squarely. "Everyone needs a place to let off steam."

Mrs. Ruth Villwock: Quietly efficient. Frowning in a concentrated memory search. Dispensing stamps, envelopes and special favors. Businesslike. "Well now, anyway."

Miss Kathy Clark: Wiry and agile in action. Attempting to make her instruction clear. Expecting attentive cooperation. Encourages participation. "Let's put a little effort into it!"

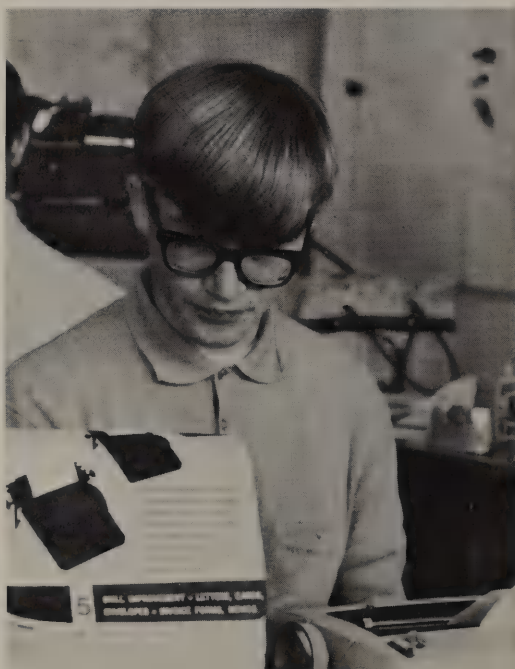

Cheryl Mohr sorts student files in the general office, where she and others assist Mrs. Ruby Dashiell and Mrs. Dorothy Ross in everyday office work.

Typing with few or no mistakes is a difficult task, but Bobbie skill to this undertaking.

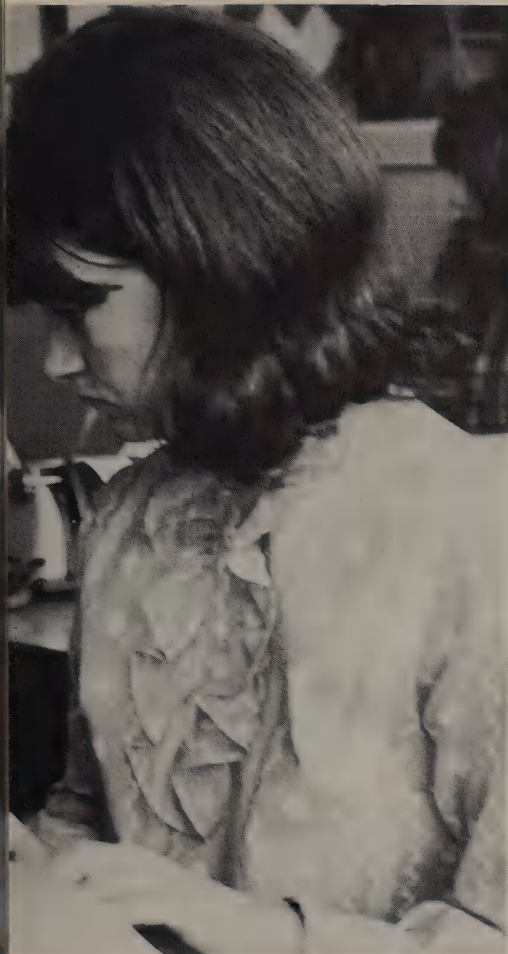

Pat Anderson works in Typing II to finish a timed assignment.

A Typing I skill improvement drill holds Ray Henshaw's attention.

BUSINESS EDUCATION Acknowledges Majors

Business education teacher Marsha Anderson demonstrates to students how to run the mimeograph machine in office machines class.

Filing, sorting and calculating are all practices put to use when girls like Becky Kesson and Nancy Dodge have work experience in the school's general office.

Business students were released afternoons for a work experience program in "on the job" training. These students were given skilled instruction in business machines, business law, office practice and business math from a staff led by Mr. Ed Caillier. A new face on the business scene was Miss Marsha Anderson. A new club, which was organized to acknowledge student ability in the business world, was Future Business Leaders of America, commonly called FBLA.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Today's Problems Stimulation or Indifference

World history students Jane Whitely, Chuck Holton and Kelley Lucanio are engrossed in reading their text, Modern Times.

Dale Smith contemplates the complexities of the large group in United States history.

In modern problems simulation tests, Craig Seibert "borrows" money from "banker" Dan Thompson.

In another simulation, Randy Pope, Chris Hilt and Linda Nisson prepare an investment plan.

A "faith test" is exhibited in family life by Shirley Miller, as she relies on Stuart Wright, Jerry Peters, Bob Morris, Mike Dyke, John Gillett, Alan Althaus and Mr. Dewey Tuttle to break her fall.

Role-playing Scopes Monkey Trial are Jeff Gordon as Clarence Darrow and Kevin Reimer as the judge.

Aided by team teachers Mr. Russell Smith, Mr. Del Kerber and Mr. Bob Opperman, department head Bob Cantonwine offered stimulating lectures to some 400 students. In both social studies courses, American history and modern problems, films were utilized regularly, as well as intermediate group seminars, where problems and questions were resolved on a one-to-one basis. Studying the 1920's, American history students role-played the Scopes Monkey Trial. Highlights for seniors were the Black Student Union visitation, simulation of politics and economics and a visit by Mr. Jack Brown, stockbroker for the First California Company. Learning about yesterday and today leaves only tomorrow to conquer.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Universal Gym Gives Workout

Physical education offered a welcome relief from pressures of the classroom. Girls classes, with Miss Kathy Clark and Miss Shirley Scharpenberg, concentrated on skills to enhance coordination through use of modern dance, gymnastics and universal gym. With the help of Bob Haack, one of a number of student teachers, Mr. Bill Dressel channeled boys' enthusiasm into such diverse activity as track, mushball and badminton.

"O.K., Petersen, get down and do 20!" Here, Dave obediently carried out the command.

An exhausting 100-yard dash is completed by Ron Brandvold, as he sneaks some time in P.E. class to prepare for an upcoming meet.

HEALTH AND DRIVERS EDUCATION

Warning - Student Driver Ahead

Careful behind-the-wheel instruction is received by Jack Haines, as Mr. Frank Kettleson suggests adjusting of the rear-view mirror.

During a medical self-help unit in health, Sue Morris practices mouth-to-mouth artificial respiration on Ron Balzer.

Along with American history, DHS juniors were required to take one semester of health education. Among durations of public health and sex education, pupils employed a unit of inner-self knowledge. Here they studied the human skeleton and muscles. This examination prepared them for "medical self-help — a detailed version of first aid.

Six hours of behind-the-wheel training was an essential for enrolled sophs. Through the courtesy of Econo Rambler, students had the opportunity to drive in the plush comfort of new 1969 "wheels." In the required thirty hours of classroom study, guest speakers were utilized in the form of insurance salesmen Stan Schmidt and Les Voth. Learning to fill out intricate accident report forms encouraged students to be alert, defensive drivers.

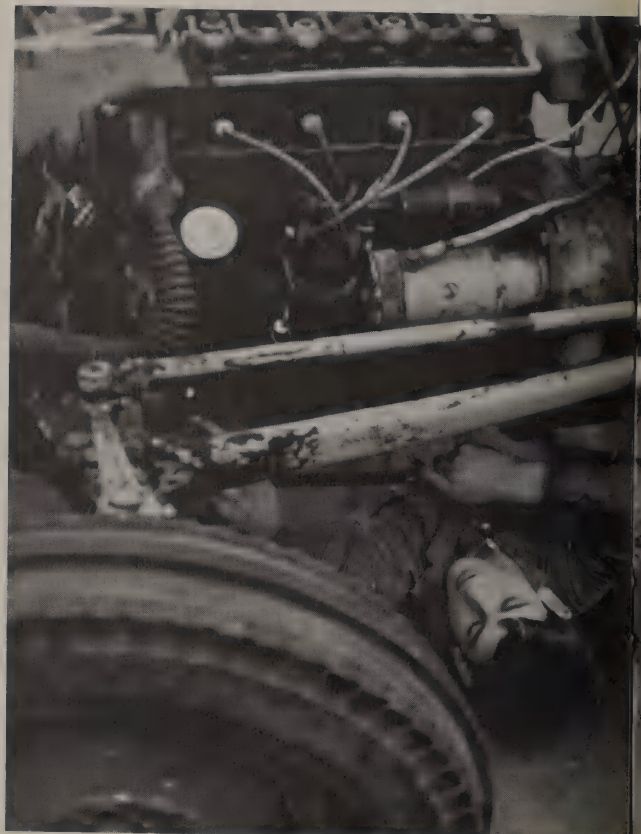

Darrell Bigelow finishes a brazing job in his power mechanics class.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

Craftsmanship Urged

Part of the job of building a tool carrier is the final sanding as Mel Kerp illustrates in the above picture.

Dan Shellenbarger finds himself in an awkward position a starter on an old tractor he is rebuilding.

Virgil Hamm works rapidly in assembling a lawn mower motor in the power mechanics class.

As a part of a timed contest in voc. ag. Rick Holton wires an electrical switch.

Roy Bigelow bevels the edge on his project during a shop skills contest in ag.

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE

Shop Skills Contest a First

Industrial arts class instructors Mr. Brooks Wagner (woods) and Mr. Gary Thayer (metals) encouraged creativity in projects such as hope chests, buffets, desks, book ends, lathe-work and sheet metal boxes.

Mr. Bruce Bolden taught power mechanics to interested students who specialized in motor rebuilding (especially hapless faculty members' lawn mowers). Instructors opened the facilities several evenings during the year for project completion.

Forestry field trips conducted by instructor Robert Burnham led to student understanding of planting and care of Douglas Fir and related species. Student surveyors set up a replica of "Anywheresville," to acquire first hand skills in transit operation.

SCIENCE

And Life Goes On

Lack of interest and a crowded spring schedule were responsible for the cancellation of the traditional coast trip, so biology students concentrated on spring projects and microscope work, instead. Advanced biology students were led by Mr. Mark Sather through the complexity of Aves (birds) and spent several weeks dissecting pigeons. The high point came with a field trip to Helmick Park for bird watching and field notes.

Ron Blower and David Edwards hear a lecture on chromosome links.

Physics teacher Bill Foote adjusts titration setup during prep period.

Mr. Mark Sather helps Charleen Anderson cut around the medusopore of the starfish in an advanced biology class.

"Investigation" was the watchword in Mr. William Foose's chemistry and physics classes. Presenting a continual challenge for curious young minds, perplexing problems required concentrated study. By searching extensively the chemical and physical properties of matter, the scientifically inclined could begin to comprehend the mechanics of their surroundings.

Janne Samson figures up chemical reactions and equations in Mr. William Foose's 6th period chemistry class.

FINE ARTS

Do Your Thing

Guided by Mr. Charles Kearney, art students of the 68-69 school year concentrated their efforts on collage-making, drawing, ceramics, and sculpture. Class requirements included book reports and notebooks. In advanced art, students had appreciable liberty within the limits of specified units. For three months art students enjoyed having a student teacher, Mr. Rick Bartow.

"Himalayan Passover," a collage assignment in art, is completed by Ron Jacobsen, using a "different" technique.

Val "Stick" Philips' collage titled "Collage" is inspected by Mr. Rick Bartow, OCE student teacher in our art department.

Lynda Wolf adjusts the hangman's noose of her plaster sculpture, entitled "The Hangman's Tree," in the process of completion for a test.

During the Christmas season, Jean Cook and Nancy English construct ■ tissue paper kissing ball for the advanced home ec. class.

HOME ECONOMICS Fabric to Formal

In confidential trust, hopeful homemakers exchanged opinions or aired youthful complaints. Questions, realistic and probing, brought mixed responses — some carefully chosen, others merely jumbled explosions. Laughing eyes and subdued giggles accented humorous interruptions and distractions. An impulsive "Yeah, but you know what?," "No, I never met him," "I'm glad it's Friday," — all combined into a relaxed and informal atmosphere. Willing to give and take, 68-69 home economics students at Dallas High warmed to the privilege of sharing common interests.

Alice Lowe ices her "bunny" cake in Home Ec. IV, one of many "appearance makes the meal" projects.

Instructor Miss Shirley Sharpenberg evaluates the finished product.

HOME ECONOMICS

From Tacks to Tailoring

Mrs. Jean Miller, a new face on the scene, and Miss Shirley Sharpenberg helped prepare home economics girls for the future. Besides various cooking and sewing projects, laundry, home furnishing, marriage, and child care, all classes shared in the spring play-school. Given time for creativity, the girls made Christmas gifts and decorations, and some arranged flowers. As a break in the routine, advanced students visited ■ local landscaper.

Preparing a "goody" stocking for a Christmas party at Hillcrest School is Marilyn Cauble, a Home Ec. III student.

Nancy Hayter, French II student, corrects her conjugation of the French verb "to sing."

FOREIGN LANGUAGES

Universal Link

Attempting to lessen the communication gap were Mrs. Margaret Kelley and Mr. James Johnston, French and Spanish instructors respectively. Building from basic knowledge of the sound systems and memorization, students advanced to complex composition. Monthly scholastic magazines brought the latest about foreign peoples as did visiting exchange students.

Second year French students Marcia Gager and Janet Anderson translate a difficult story, Claudette La Farge a Paris.

Sheryl Hilborn uses earphones to get in a Spanish mood as she and Vicki Black thumb through Life En Espanol.

Donna Cooley and Debbie Wilke don clown white and costume for Speech IV final.

... Student writers penned free writing, daily ... Guest speakers from the State Penitentiary program, "Upward Bound" ... Speech students saw and heard themselves through the eyes of television ... Journalism classes were bussed to Eugene for a publications convention.

Sue Voth paints the toes of one so pretty in language arts for their art film.

Department head Fred Staab captures his class for the art movie, "Feet."

LANGUAGE ARTS

Pilot Program Gives Momentum

For the first time, video-tape and movie cameras were incorporated into teaching language arts at DHS. It became part of the pilot program which has shown complete success in its second year. Mr. Fred Staab returned after a year of graduate studies to become the department head. A new teacher added to the English staff was Mr. LeRoy Gilbert. Oregon's educational eyes were on DHS's reactions to the new program for possible future statewide application.

Brad Foster comes to grips with math theory in his geometry class.

First year math instructor Mrs. Phyllis Hammer checks Diane Crone's paper, one of many homework assignments in Math IV.

MATHEMATICS

Computer Mingles With Theory

The math department made itself heard this year with its clicking hall-way computer. But for the computer students, the machine was more than a noise in the hall; it became a challenge, a game, and often a headache. Three scholarly seniors survived their last "gruelling" year in math as the smallest class in history. Mr. Friesen's "pets" were the Math Sixes; this class came equipped with a surprise birthday party for their teacher. Our unique combination of parallels, parabolas, probability, perfect squares, proportions, problems, and a great deal of practice made our "math year."

CUSTODIAL STAFF Practical Details

In the cooking department, Mrs. Dixie Lacey and Mrs. Marcella Brown turned out taste-teasing lunches. Besides her love for baking, Mrs. Lacey displayed imagination in artistically decorating the kitchen. Custodians, too, helped keep our school alive. Working morning to night, weekends and vacations, still there was more work to be done when they returned the next day.

One musical elective course of study was mixed choir. Offered only one period a day, the class was filled to capacity with 86 students. The group presented three music concerts, under the direction of Mrs. Nancy Rosenbalm, with the DHS band and members of the Girls' Glee. The Christmas concert highlighted the month of December. Rather than an all-school musical, the music department decided to have a concert in February, as well as the traditional Spring concert. "Singing Dragons," was the name given to the mixed ensemble. It was also active, singing for various functions and organizations. Girls' Glee, composed of all underclassmen, participated in all music concerts as well.

ORGANIZATIONS

Forty-two years ago the junior class presented the play "Officer 666." It was a big event; took a lot of planning and practice. Today student activities continued to demand much practice and planning. Music is no exception, it takes real teamwork to make harmony. And the band plays on . . .

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Year of Debate; Appeal

Tom Banford, Vice President

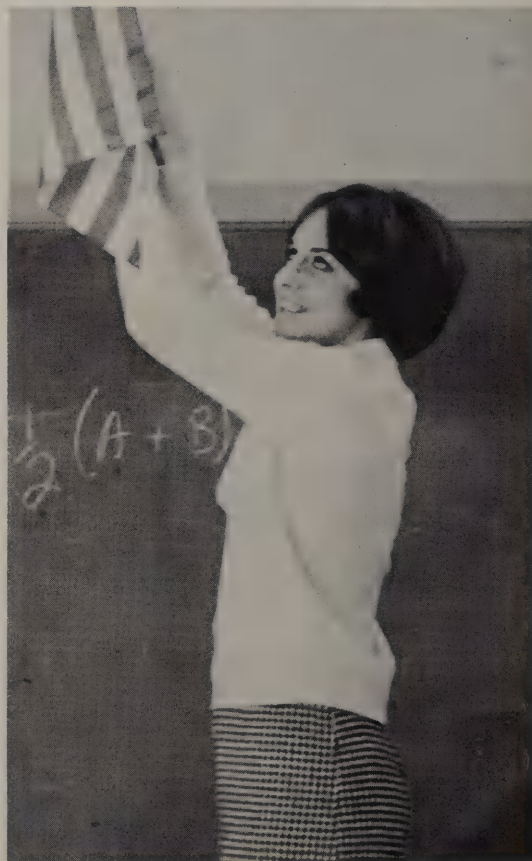

Jane Rohrbough, Election Chairman

George Thompson, Sergeant at Arms

As chairman of several Student Council committees, Pat Anderson expresses her grievances as she signs a petition posted on the "Wittenberg Board."

After she had appealed to the school board, Sherry Jenson displays one of the new flags purchased for the school.

Gale Snapp, President

"A year of silent progress . . ." stated President Gale Snapp of the 1968-69 Student Council. Officers banded together to acquire the controversial vandalism fund and new flags for the school, then requested help in the fulfillment of Homecoming '68.

Members took a long, searching look into the council's purpose and developed ways by which to improve the communication gap between reps and students. During May Dallas hosted the Region IV Student Officers Conference, in which old and newly elected officers from throughout the region attended, trading ideas and sharing the problems of running a student government.

Sherry Jensen, Treasurer

Kathy Birchell, Secretary

Sue Fisher, Activity Chairman

Part of the activity of "Daddy Date Nite" was a football game, with the girls as hostesses.

Debbie Seaman, Most Athletic, pins a corsage on sweet, smiling Judy Ratzlaff, February's Girl of the Month.

GIRLS' LEAGUE

Promoting Welfare and Friendship

Promoting mutual friendships and cultivating individual personalities, Girls' League incorporated all DHS girls. For marked service to the league or the school, members were awarded pins and guards. At Christmas time, gifts presented by DHS girls brought a little joy to Hillcrest School for Girls. Special speakers, entertaining and informative, furnished programs for league meetings. Combining the installation of new officers, the revelation of the Girl of the Year and the fashion show (presented by home economics students) was the May Mothers' Tea. Advising the league were Mrs. Evelyn Rogers and Mrs. Phyllis Hammer.

Becky Halstead finally "goes under" at the Girls' League slumber party.

Jane Mosher watches her step as she reaches the stage to model her suit at the annual Mothers Tea.

MOTHERS TEA

Daisy Days

Girls League is the largest club in Dallas High School. The club had some traditional activities such as the Christmas party at Hillcrest. Also sponsored was the Valentines Dance, and a slumber party at the beginning of the school year. The Mothers Tea was the big event for Girls League; a fashion show by the home economics classes followed by awards and installation of officers, plus the announcement of girl of the year, Debbie Seaman. Leaders included: president, Linda Prater; first vice president, Nancy Lamb; second vice president, Debbie Denlinger; secretary, Jane Mosher; treasurer, Chris Hilts; historian, Vicki Black; advisors, Mrs. Evelyn Rogers, Mrs. Phyllis Hammer.

Betty Goertz tells the old story of "Cinderella" at the fashion show, as her sister, Charlotte (the arms), adds a special effect.

BOYS' FEDERATION

From Boys to Men

Conducting elections for new officers is Mr. Bill Fisher, with the assistance of Bryan Hoffman and Tom Banford.

Captivating the attention of the audience is the announcement of the discontinuation of Boys' Federation next year.

With Advisors Mr. Bill Fisher and Mr. Bob Opperman, Boys' Federation tried to bring programs before the male students which were both entertaining and educational. Interesting programs included a Karate demonstration, a movie on LSD and a traditionally held meeting with Girls' League. In appreciation of several special speakers, boys often pitched pennies out onto the gym floor. Due to lack of interest, the boys voted to disban the club for the year of '70.

HIGH CHRISTIAN Youths' Encounter . . .

by Copy Editor Evy Willems

I encountered new experiences in an extremely active club, Hi C. New blood, in advisor Bob Opperman, and experience, in counselor Lando Friesen, excited us into exerting our efforts in new and different explorations. Our Halloween party was really something else! It was held in the hay loft of an old barn. We all arrived at the "bash" after a half-hour hay ride. I remember being so cold — especially on the long ride home, but we sang choruses like "It Is Summertime in My Heart" the whole way home, with goose-pimpled bodies and chattering teeth. I was "kinda" disappointed in not getting to hear Skip Stock when he talked at an evening session. "The Parable," a film we saw after the Forest Grove game, was really thought provoking. This film was remarkably symbolic and we had a chance to discuss our interpretations of it over home-made ice cream. The weekend retreat at Silver Creek Falls was a "blast." I really got to know some of the "kids" in a more personal way.

Bob Thompson engages in a stimulating discussion of the unique film, "Parable," as his home-made ice cream settles for a second.

AMERICAN FIELD SERVICE

Our Latin Lovely

Brightening DHS life was pretty, fun-loving Virginia Vindas, our Costa Rican AFS student. Living with the Glenn Knight family, Vicky learned English here in the United States. Adapting to our educational pattern, she proved far from timid in sharing background experiences. Slides and enlightening discussions brought a Costa Rican flavor to Dallas. Demonstrating her very human quality, Vicky's eager response and glowing smile won friends for her. Enchanted by American life, she wishes to return.

AFS CARNIVAL AND BANQUET

Compliments of DHS

"Hey folks! We've got a winner over here in the bingo ring!" "Come one, come all! Let the ghosts and goblins "warp" your minds — in the spooky, ol', haunted house." "The little fella at the basketball throw has 3-4 now, I see." "All pictures in the annual booth are now being sold at half price." Such were the sights and sounds of the AFS carnival, where nearly every DHS club participated. A total of $642.75 was taken in for a '69-70 foreign exchange student.

A banquet held in honor of students in the AFS program was one of food, information and entertainment. AFS students from surrounding areas were invited and each gave a short talk, as some had special features — songs, guitar, or dance.

Alice Thiel paints the poster for the Dragonettes booth.

FRENCH AND SPANISH CLUBS

Communication Bridge

Advised by Mr. James Johnston, Spanish Club plans included an informal tortilla feed, picnics and a Christmas pinata party. Handling concessions at the January 24th basketball game drew in $15. For the AFS Carnival, the club was asked to manage the publicity. French Club members, aided by Mrs. Margaret Kelley, sold pennants and operated a dart game at the AFS Carnival. Viewing a fall French "programme" was a welcome diversion for those attending.

HONOR SOCIETY

Highest Honors Bestowed

One compensation of scholarly students was the recognition of being tapped into the National Honor Society, Dallas chapter. To become members of the society students were required to have a G.P.A. of 3.3 and be active in school and out. Two tapping assemblies, fall and spring, recruited thirty-one new members. Zip code books were sold at Christmas time for the money raising purpose of a trip to Jefferson High School in Portland. The visit to the large, integrated school sent N.H.S. members back home with mixed emotions and new ideas for another successful year for the society.

Candle lighting was only a small part of the ceremony, as displayed here by Nancy English and Judi McGlaughlin, while Jane Rohrbough awaits her turn at the fall tapping.

FINE ARTS

The Year of the Bash

Promoting a more "arty" feeling in school was a goal set by artists at DHS. An interesting, learning experience was the field trip to a Portland art museum, which provided an incentive for redecorating the art room in mod fashion. Creating a real "bash" — a "car bash," that is — became the "clubbers" contribution to the AFS Carnival. In addition, a painting booth, complete with scenery artists, offered amateur artistry to all comers.

Displaying their talents, members Lynda Wolf, Clayton Roberts, Debra Smith, and Larry Rose paint psychedelic designs on the '58 Chevy to be used in the car bash at the AFS Carnival.

CADET TEACHING

Youthful Inner Action

Gaining valuable practice in teaching were some thirty seniors, selected by the guidance committee for their dependability and intellect. Choosing the age level they desired to instruct, they were assigned to a specific teacher. Situated in local schools and supervised by Mrs. Jean Miller, cadets taught one period each day for one semester. Besides preparing lessons and presenting them to young listeners, these students wrote observations as they learned to work with children.

As one of the many seniors participating in cadet teaching, Janet Brandt instructs an elementary school student.

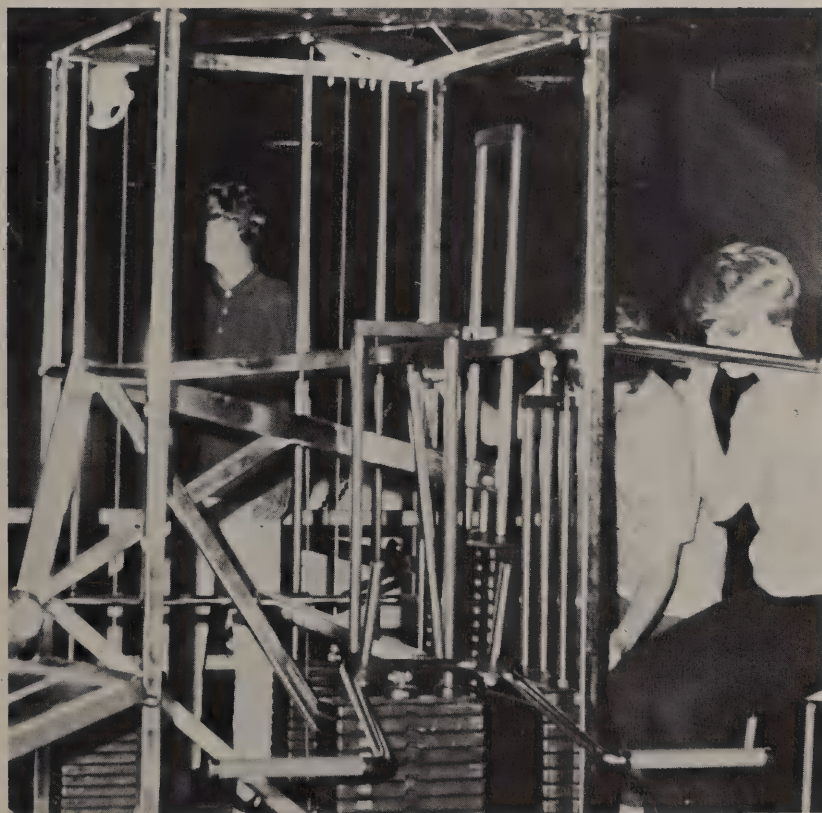

Demonstrating the "on the ball" fire squad service is Steve Bennett closing off oxygen in practice for the real thing.

FIRE SQUAD

New Techniques Learned

"It's a fire drill!" "Close that window! Turn off those lights!" Fire chief Jerry Peters was always on hand to give the commands. Timing each of the seven drills was another duty of the fire fighters and their advisor, Mr. Robert Modde. Tending several game concessions helped keep the twelve boys active. Their desire to improve and promote their job encouraged Mr. Jack Stein, Dallas city fire chief, to hold a session with the squad, at which he demonstrated the use of three types of fire extinguishers. The boys also learned new fire fighting techniques. The key of "activeness" opened the way for another fire-free year through the time and efforts of a "fired-up" membership.

Being used extensively is the universal gym purchased by the very successful lettermen. It uses leverage, pulleys and various combinations of weights to maintain fitness.

LETTERMEN

He-Men Buy Body-Builder

A progressive club at DHS was that of Varsity D. Concessions, a picnic, bottle drive, heart fund drive (community service) — all were encompassed by the boys. A fall encounter was the building of the Homecoming bonfire, the largest that Dragon fans have seen in years. Other functions included a successful Sadie Hawkins dance (complete with straw) and the annual athletic banquet. Those honored athletes preserved the long-standing tradition of the big "D."

Excitement reigns for Debbie Stefani, Beth Seaman, Angie Riedel and Lorry Johnson, while Carla Lesiak receives honorary recognition by Miss Kathy Clark at awards assembly.

GIRLS ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

"Spring Oasis" Added

With an executive committee composed entirely of juniors, Girls Athletic Association sponsored bowling parties and "just-plain-fun" nights, as well as aiding in the presentation and advertising of girls athletic events. The year's activities were completed with the highlight of a spring banquet "Spring Oasis," at which next year's officers were announced.

Volunteering regular service, Candy Strippers fitted into the routine at the Dallas Hospital and Dallas Rest Home. Besides viewing films concerning public health problems, members toured Oregon Medical School and Fruit and Flower Day Nursery in Portland. Also brightening the fall was a slumber party. In the spring, visits to Christie School for Emotionally Disturbed Girls and to the Louise Home for the mentally retarded proved fascinating and profitable. Counseled by Mrs. Evelyn Rogers and Miss Janice Harding, the club has flourished.

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS OF AMERICA

Girls Cater Often

Commencing events with a slumber party, FHA girls sprawled out in sleeping bags from the home economics room to the balcony! Exercising their cooking abilities, they baked breads and sweets to bring in cash. At Christmas time, they garnished the halls, consumed chile, and constructed stockings for the Red Cross. A spaghetti feed at the AFS Carnival landed one of the largest profits earned by any club involved. Topped off by the Installation Dessert for new officers, the last week in April was proclaimed as their traditional FHA Week.

FUTURE FARMERS OF AMERICA

Pixie House Is Fairbound

A tradition which began with the construction of our present school building was the FFA-FHA donkey basketball game. This was only one activity in which the Dallas chapter of Future Farmers of America participated. Working in concessions, holding contests — in shop, soil judging, cattle judging — and selling snow cones at the band festival were also events headed by advisor Robert Burnham. Crowned FFA Sweetheart was Judy Villwock. The coronation ceremony was held at a Father-Son Banquet.

THESPIANS

"On With the Show"

A dramatic student honorary, Thespians was a club directed by Mr. Glenn Knight. Co-sponsoring an AFS booth, a fortune-telling tent, with Forensics was a project which kept the ten "actors" busy preparing for and participating in. Student body plays, such as "Holiday for Lovers" and "Saint Joan," also found the group willing and able to carry out their individual responsibilities. Getting points for acting in dramas, as well as for backstage work, make-up, prompting, lighting and scenes, could earn any participant a membership in National Thespians.

Mr. Glenn Knight plays a dual role in Dallas High dramatics as he directs and advises the Thespians through various activities and plays. Here he attempts to solve Midge Brockhaus' problem of "stage stance."

These young speakers, (from left) Ron Sutter, Sandee Henson, Gary Cook, Bernice Reimer and Libby Allgood, have the satisfaction of jobs well done.

The only demand made of students for membership into Forensics was a point accumulation of twenty-five points in competitive speaking. The group staged an after-game activity dance and co-sponsored a "mystics" booth at the AFS Carnival. Honors for the year include a state berth for Ron Sutter in ADS and extemp and winning the traveler's trophy at the NFL district speech contest for the third consecutive year.

DRAGONETTES

Ladies Show Loyalty

Faithfully attending all games, Dragonettes added to the excited spirit accompanying vigorous athletic clashes. At half-time, these girls were available to provide entertainment. As a gay diversion, they favored the Lettermen with a party. In May, the Dragonettes tantalized appetites with their "doghouse" hot dogs at the AFS Carnival. For the coming year, they anticipate a membership increase.

VARSITY RALLY

Kings Aid DHS Spirit

Winning the second place spirit trophy at rally school was the climax of a summer filled with energetic practices. Our yell kings, the first rally boys at DHS since '63, worked vigorously to aid the girls at games and pep assemblies, including the exchange assembly with Mac. Lead by queen Donna Petit and guided through the advisory of Miss Kathy Clark, the squad came up with new yells and chants as well as the "old favorites" throughout the '68-'69 seasons.

J.V. RALLY

Spirited Baby Dragons

Lending their support to the J.V. football and basketball teams were the J.V. rally members, Marilyn Cauble, Teri Worley and Marti Edwards, led by queen Nancy English.

The yell leaders presented assembly skits and yells, dabbled out colorful pep signs, and sacrificed lunch hours to take names for the rooter buses. Most important, they continued their vigorous support whenever the team faltered.

WRESTLING RALLY

We've Got Spirit

Chosen in the fall of 1968, Queen Chris Muller and yell-leaders June Drexelius, Carol Kahler and Mary Overstreet became the third wrestling rally squad in DHS history. Bouncing spirit and enthusiasm overwhelmed their lack of experience, as the girls rounded out the other rally squads. Queen Chris and group inspired wrestlers and contributed to the many pep assemblies leading spirited and original yells and routines.

ACTIVITIES

Without special activities no one would ever feel the sensation of being covered with confetti, or the contentment of dancing with their favorite person. No dances, assemblies, or after-game activities make for a very boring year. This fact has always been true, and it always will be. To laugh, to cry, to move to music; these make up a teen's life, these give him memories.

HOMECOMING COURT

Breeden's Cannon Salutes Queen Julie

Queen Julie Edwards and her court, consisting of princesses Joyce Hildebrand, Jan Mosher, Gayle Brown, Karen Kliever, and Kathy Birchell, began their reign on Tuesday of Homecoming Week. A "first" in Dallas High history, this enabled the royal court to reign over the various activities of the week. The many events they attended included the traditional serpentine, bonfire, pep assembly, football game and official Homecoming dance.

As they enter the field, Bob Kliever and Grant Jones prepare to "blast" the cannon in salute to the 1968 Homecoming Court.

Expressing their feelings on the dance floor are Mary Ann Greenwood, Donna Hutt and Steve Hildebrand.

HARDTIMES DRAG "Casually Crazy"

Symbolizing Sadie Hawkins was the girl-ask-boy Hardtimes Drag. A local group, the "Crystal Illusion," provided music for the occasion. Chairman Dave Petersen and his decorations committee surrounded the room and the centralized totem pole with bales of hay. A group of boys, headed by chairman Bob Thompson, provided refreshments for the thirsty participants. The yearly affair not only signified Sadie Hawkins Day, but also marked the end of the 1968 football season.

Stepping in time to sounds of "Spectrum" are Mike Cutler and Craig Seibert.

CHRISTMAS DANCE

Snowed Inn

"Snowed Inn," the theme of last year's Christmas Dance, was presented to the students of Dallas High by the senior class. Decor included a snow-covered scene surrounding the cafeteria, while inside it presented the atmosphere of a mountain inn. Center of interest included a 50-foot decorated Christmas tree, surrounded by tables, a refreshment bar, and a red-brick fireplace. Highlight of the evening was the presentation and crowning of the 1968-69 Christmas Court, as attendants danced to the music of "Spectrum."

La Corte de Navidad

Last year's foreign exchange student, Vicki Vindas, and Lee Padilla were crowned queen and king of Christmas activities 1968 at an assembly held in their honor. Vicki and Lee, both seniors, reigned over their court consisting of juniors Mary Ann Greenwood and Randy Cook, and sophomores Adell Michaels and Dennis Blanton. The court was again presented at the Christmas Ball held later in the week.

FALL COMEDY "Holiday for Lovers"

With a small cast of nine, the fall comedy, "Holiday for Lovers," attracted many spectators. Taking a vacation to Europe turned out much differently for the Deans — Robert, Mary and Betsy — than they had anticipated. Finding that their little girl Betsy, has fallen in love and that their older daughter, Margaret, has been secretly married and is expecting their first grandchild, is a shocking discovery for the loving couple, to say the least. The traditional happy ending held true with the curtain ringing down on the small, French hotel suite.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean, played by Pat Anderson and Ron Sutter, make up after a small quarrel.

Heather Knight, portraying Betsy Dean, answers the phone expecting a call from a boy friend, but the call turns out to be her uncle.

SPRING DRAMA

"Saint Joan"

"Saint Joan" was presented to the student body and public for the 1969 spring play. Mr. Knight picked this all female cast as a result of a lack of male participation. Teri Embree, playing the lead role of Joan (a French peasant's daughter), commented that the first all girl cast in Dallas High School's history concentrated more on acting than costumes. Representational scenery and props demanded close involvement of audience and cast alike. The girls were heavily dependent on dialogue and, in Teri's case, the dramatic monologue became a part of her life for many weeks before opening night.

VALENTINE COURT

My Little Valentine

February 8 was the date for the Valentine Dance — the only dance of the year at which a king reigned rather than a queen. In his sparkling crown, Senior King Mike Dyck, escorted by Karen Kliever, sped his way like an arrow into many of the "young hearts" who attended the affair. The featured band was the "Naked Raisin" of Washington. Working frantically to get the red and white streamers up in time for the evening's festivities were members of Girls' League. Three huge hearts with the words "My-Little-Valentine" covered the front of the stage. Miniature center pieces on each table completed the decor.

TALENT SHOW

Caught in the Act

An all-schools Talent Show, sponsored by the choir, brought in enough money to make possible a visit to Seaside in May. Cash prizes were presented to 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place winners: Tammy Lefever, Heather Knight, and a trio including Debbie Radke, Janet Brandt and Jane Wiebe.

STUDENT COUNCIL ELECTIONS

Leaders Take Positions

Performing one of his duties as sergeant-at-arms, lowering of the colors, is George Thompson, student body president for the 1969-70 school year.

Politics came to DHS in a very real sense. Being an election year nationally, helped school politicians give an all out effort in campaigns and speeches. Campaigns were really something else! A life like dollar bill, giant size, hung in the cafeteria with the words "In Deb We Trust." Some speeches were characterized by skits. The slogan "Vicki, Vicki Dollars" was illustrated by a hula girl? — Jim Allgood — in behalf of Vicki Rosenbalm and a flock of sheep brought in Peggy Lamb. To set the pace and bring in the national election year, Craig Seibert posed as LBJ, accent and all, to introduce his candidate, Sherry Jensen. Budding politicians all, DHS'ers supported their favorites with a sixty percent turnout of voters.

HI-C RETREAT

Retreat Lures Harried Students

A time of fun, free-exploration, and fellowship were only a few words that could adequately describe a spring weekend at Silver Creek Falls. This particular weekend, approximately 10% of Dallas High's student body was represented. Drawing back, "retreating" to nature, where a closeness to God was more easily felt, the group had the chance to "re-arm" spiritually. A midnight hike of the falls was a real adventure, with free time allowed for separation from the crowd. Sunday morning saw a "do your own thing" fellowship, rather than a "normal" Sunday worship hour. Everyone was encouraged to express themselves through special songs, personal testimonies, and intimate discussions about whatever was on their minds. All campers joined hands in a closing sentence prayer.

A mid-morning hike of the falls is more than just a sight seeing tour for those young campers.

The evening of May 24, 1969 was one of elegance. Arrayed in long, flowing gowns and trim slacks and jackets, couples relished the special music provided by Tom Reams and Jim Quiring of Salem. Adding spice to "old favorites" like "Amazing Grace," Tom and Jim sang the song to the tune of "House of the Rising Sun." A ninety minute film entitled "Beloved Enemy" replaced the traditional speaker. In the film, a scientist sets out to disprove Christianity, but his works back-fire. In trying to prove there is no God, he instead finds the true, living God for himself.

Jim Quiring and Tom Reams provide a relaxed atmosphere for a formal occasion with "Hey Jude."

Admiring the parade from their own float are Miss Toledo escorted by Ron Brandvold, Miss Sheridan with Rancy Wood accompanying, and Miss Dallas, Pam Basom, with escort Mark Parmenter.

BAND AND BAND DAY

And the Band Played On

Our school wouldn't be school, it just wouldn't be DHS without a band. Under the left-handed direction of Mr. Dave Beier, the band had a few subsidiaries — stage band, dixieland band, brass quartet, as well as several soloists. Featuring the dixieland band at the AFS Carnival was a welcome break from the common cries of the midway. Selecting a girl from our school to represent Dallas at the annual Band Day festivities was a delight and privilege bestowed on the membership. Marching drills were also a regular routine for the musicians in preparation for the parade on "their" day. Ending the year with a "toot" and a "bang" the band plays on.

Golden Anniversary Celebrated

The Dragon staffers faced a formidable task, one which was the culmination of fifty years of publications. This, coupled with a first class honor rating on the '68 Dragon, kept activity at a fever pitch. Other factors which occasionally caused mass hysteria were general inexperience, a crowded activity calendar and the pressure to make all-american. Green hand co-editors, in the persons of Sue Fisher and Mary DeGraff were, "loudly" enthusiastic, while their "sometimes-reluctant" classmates faced, and overcame, layout problems (hen and chick), photography (blah pictures), Orioles and Periscopes (50,000 group shots) and the budget (helpful co-editor, "We could catch chickens.") Mr. Robert Schiopen — sage, prophet and advisor interspersed yearbook with TV analysis.

Advisor Mrs. Margaret Kelley and Jim Allgood crop two-column pics for paste up.

DRAGON TALES

Eight-Pager, a First

Through the strenuous efforts of the business department, the Dragon Tales was able to publish a "first of its kind" — an eight-page paper — throughout the year. Another "first" included two regular feature columns, "Chadder Box" by the feature editor, Sue Fisher, and "What We Think" by senior editor, Jackie Will. With the guidance of Mrs. Margaret Kelley, advisor, and Jackie Will, senior editor, the staff members "built" their own newspaper by pasting it up after school at the Itemizer Observer office. The photography, by Ron Hoffman, earned the Dragon's high standards (for three years running). Published bi-monthly, Dragon Tales discussed the activities throughout the school year.

The reporting year was concluded with a tour of the Itemizer Observer.

. . . From high buttoned shoes to sneakers . . . from chemise to bermudas . . . from bobbed hair to guiche . . . from bifocals to shades . . . what was the furpiece is now the ski jacket . . . what was the pinch-back suit is now the paisley . . . These are the surface contrasts beneath which lie more notable distinctions . . . "Kids are different 'cause times are different!"

After twelve eventful years of school attendance, '69's seniors faced the end with varied sentiments. With mounting tensions, they ascended the grandstand stairs and passed with measured step through arches of elegant blooms. Seated before faces both familiar and unfamiliar, they heard expressions of faith and hope as recognized scholars confronted life's perplexities optimistically. Satisfied smiles briefly twisted youthful lips as rows of upper classmen stood moments away from their diplomas. Before the platform, twenty hearts thrilled to the announcement, "Graduating with honors . . ." Gripping his precious packet, each graduate grasped the school board chairman's hand and returned to his place. Following the recessional was a muddle of jubilant whoops, relieved laughter, and warm congratulations, charging the air with a sense of triumph.

SENIORS

The Motivated Ones

"All the way with '69." "'69 Super-fine." These were the familiar chants that reflect a senior year of wistful memories . . . of emotional pep competition; Homecoming, grubbie days, and the Prom's "Magic Moments." "Senior Week" for the upperclassmen was one of variety and distinction. Monday through Friday of "their week" offered a new and unusual activity for the seniors. Monday's mixer successfully kicked off the events, highlighted by the announcement of Homecoming Queen Julie Edwards. "No Sweat Day," held Tuesday, proclaimed a no-sweat victory over St. Helens, as they attended classes garbed in sweat-shirts and grubbies. The following day, seniors booby-trapped their lockers with alarm clocks, set to go off at certain intervals. Thursday's "Sock It To 'Em, Seniors Day" saw class members traipsing through the halls wearing goofy socks and no shoes. A senior-sponsored pep assembly on Friday initiated enthusiasm for the evening's first Dragon victory. Christmas activities, including their dance, "Snowed Inn," was highlighted by the crowning of Costa Rican exchange student Vicky Vindas as queen and Lee Padilla as king. All events, all purposes of class participation and unity pointed to the twelve-year climax . . . graduation; color, tension, wistful moments of fond remembrances, uncertainty of the future. The seniors were leaders . . . academically, in school spirit, and in getting things done. Thus ended the year of '69.

Go! Go! 7-0!

by Copy Editor Evy Willems.

I remember vividly the first day of school — I was so anxious to see all the kids again and to think I was a junior. We had so many things to do, to prepare for, especially for the Junior-Senior Prom, "Magic Moments." By means of a few unusual, but effective fund-raisers we collected money for the best prom ever. When I said unusual, I mean, how often does an entire class go out at 10:00 at night and catch chickens? A bazaar-garage sale isn't exactly an everyday occurrence either. The only normal proceeds we received were from the Post Office, which we operated during Christmas. Ron Jacobsen, our class president, led the rest of us in some other fun, like Junior Week — a week just for us. Each day was specified — like Grubby Day, Meditation and D-Day. I almost cried at the Homecoming game when our Dragons were defeated by the Lakers in that tragic, yet fantastic game.

Underclassmen Unify

We love juniors, seniors, and sophomores! Last year's 222 sophomores impressed the entire student body during "their" week. Signs proclaiming the superiority of their class were not to be found; instead, placards stressing school unity and pride lined the hallways.

More recognition and evidence of unity was earned when the soph's won the annual "Homecoming Window" contest. Their active participation in Student Council, supporting their sophomore basketball team, success in their Spring Dance assured this class a rightful place in the "upperclassman's" school, and a firm stepping stone to their future at DHS.

ATHLETICS

It is a human desire to triumph over others, to be king of the mountain. As years go by the rules change, and so do the competitors, but the urge remains. School sports channel this urge into the construction of brawn, brain, and good-sportsmanship.

Mud-Slinging Campaign

Building confidence, gaining experience and overcoming injuries were all problems to be surmounted by '68 varsity gridders. With fourteen returning lettermen and the inspirational leadership of Steve Wright and Tom Banford, the Dragons still suffered more setbacks than wins. High points of the season included the pass interception and TD by defensive linebacker Gene VanDolah against the Cheesemakers and the nineteen "mud-packed" points against the Oswego Lakers.

Fullback Jerry Peters bulls through the line to tally six against Forest Grove.

Dragon Defense Develops

Although the record book doesn't agree, the '68 Dragon grid campaign goes down as a series of hard-fought defensive matches. The season ended with a frustrating loss to McMinnville, which left a sore spot that can only be healed with a '69 victory. Dressel-type impressions of the past season follow: "I thought it was a building year — we played a lot of sophomores and juniors. We won some close ones and lost some close ones, but all in all it was a pretty fair year. Next year will be a senior year, so we had better win!"

BASKETBALL 'Action' to Win!

Exhibiting classic form, Steve Bennett executes one-handed lay-up.

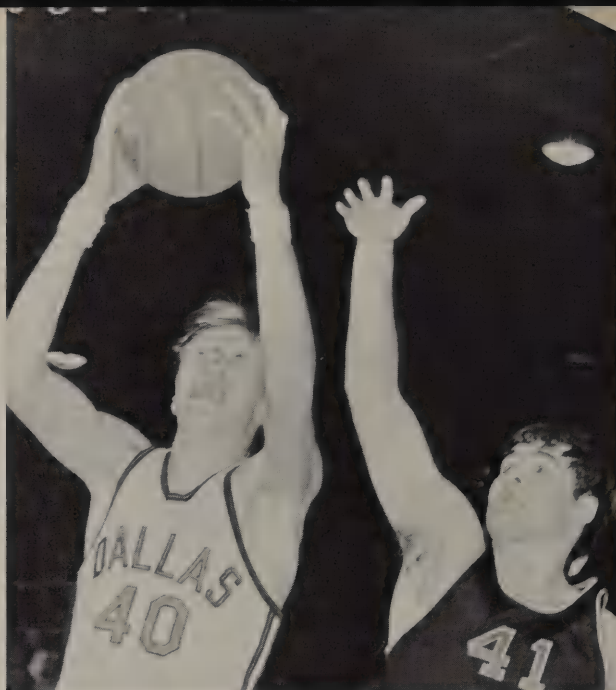

Dallas roundballers survived a hectic season of heartache and joy to show up as one of the most aggressive and improved teams in the TYV League. Inspired by "Action," closed sessions of prayer and constructive self criticism, the boys matured both physically and mentally during the season. Certainly all the "grandstanders" are anxiously awaiting the "new and improved" Dragon cagers next year. Coach Canton wine's candid comments: "The team worked very hard and they were one of the closest teams I've had in several years. This is the first time in years the Dragons have had a strong bench. I am disappointed about the injuries, along with bad officiating, which plagued us early in the second half."

Strong Bench Aids Dragons

The Dallas Dragons started the 68-69 basketball season with high hopes of a berth in the State A-1 Basketball Tournament. The year was one of tragedy, disappointment, heartbreak and injury for Coach Bob Cantonwine's cagers. The Dragons ended with a 10-8 season and the fifth place position in final league standings. The Dragons came within three minutes of defeating Lake Oswego, one of the top contenders for the state title. Losing the first three games of the second half by a total of eleven points — one in double overtime — the team won five in a row before being overcome by the Lakers, putting out the Dragon's biggest blaze in A-1 history. Dallas, however, having probably the finest season since becoming A-1 ten years ago, are looking forward to state finals next year.

Concentration and concern sobers the faces of coaches Peppley, Cantonwine and Haack, respectively, at the final game with Lake Oswego.

Hoopsters Complete Successful Season

Dallas' jayvee basketball team finished the season with an outstanding 17-5 record overall. The Baby Dragons placed first in the Tualatin-Yamhill Valley League, one game ahead of Tigard. Many of the games were close, as fourteen tilts could be decided only in the last seconds of the contest. Led by Ron Proctor, Mark Sims and Chuck Chaffin, Mr. Robert Peppley's faces completely dominated some games, such as the St. Helens series. The team's defense was one of the top in the state, limiting their opponents to 45 points per outing, while the offensive unit averaged 55 each game. Determination and hard work kept the Baby Dragon's firepower going.

"Look, Buhler, stay on that guy. I don't care if he doesn't have the ball," says Coach Cantonwine.

Center Mark Sims ties up the ball in closing minutes of Forest Grove game.

SOPHOMORE BASKETBALL

Year of Victory

Sophomores finished with a record-breaking season with ten wins and four losses, overall. This was the result of Mark Schroeder's rebounding strength, the shooting accuracy of Steve May and Mike Ripley, defensive play of Greg Fisher and Steve Hildebrand and the coaching of Mr. Mark Sather. A light touch was added through the efforts of Doug Schultz and the boys worked well together. All indications are that the next year's JV squad will bring both experience and determination to the courts.

GOLF

Fifth in TYV

The Dallas Dragon Golf squad ended their season May 12 when they placed fifth out of nine contenders at the district golf tournament. Ray Henshaw led Dallas throughout the season with Tim Brown firing a close second. When questioned after the tourney a disappointed coach, Mr. Dewey Tuttle, stated, "We had a fine season as far as our win-loss record was concerned, but our 16-5-3 record belies out disappointment in not doing better in the district meet. We were equal to any team there in ability but we weren't able to meet the challenge when the pressure was greatest. The loss of five seniors will weaken our team for next year."

With only two victories, the Dallas High wrestling season was very long. The Dragons had to forfeit many matches due to a lack of participation, which gave many points to opponents. The contenders gave the local fans good wrestling as the Dragons dumped Mac and Forest Grove. Dallas lost many close matches throughout the year, but the boys put out that special effort to make them real competitors. "Wrestling is on the way up at Dallas High," stated Coach Kearney. Placing third in the district gave Steve Penny the chance to go on to state contention.

TRACK AND FIELD

Five Records Set

Under the leadership of first year coach Ron August and assistant Dave Beier, the Dallas track team won eleven out of fifteen meets. Strong depth in the 880, 100, high jump and other events helped the Dragons' cause. The team placed third in the league standings of dual and three-way meets with a 7-2 record, but placed fifth at district out of ten teams competing. The Dragons had three men going to state: Ron Brandvold, 1:59:2 in the 880, 4:21 mile by Dan Van Camp and 51.6 in the 440 by Gene Van Dolah.

The team consisted largely of sophomores and juniors as only three seniors were lost. The team also took part in the Willamette and the Central Relays.

Bruce Elliot puts the lead ball "way out there" during a practice toss before Philomath meet.

Greg Mason clears twelve feet (good enough for a second) in pole vault at St. Helens meet.

CROSS COUNTRY

Van Camp Sets Pace

Although Dragon "fall-runners" found inspiration in a new coach, Don Barry, a teacher at Whitworth Elementary, the team still experienced a "dismal" 4-5 season. Junior Dan Van Camp led the team with five firsts in nine starts and was voted as "most inspirational" along with John Kinsey, while Barry Osteen was "most improved." "Hundred-milers" included Barry Osteen, John Kinsey, Dennis Mance, Dan Van Camp, Ron Brown and Kurt Klappenbach. Physical exhaustion, the agony of cramped muscles and the pre-race jitters were common experiences for all of these boys.

BASEBALL

Kerber's Hardballers Victorious

Dallas baseball team compiled a winning season as the Dragons took third in the TYV league with an 8-5 record, and 17-12 overall. Dallas had strong pitching as the Dragons shut out nine teams in fashionable order. John Stein led the pitchers by winning 6 out of 8 ball games.

Steve Wright led the Dragons in batting .345 in all games, Steve Bennett was next with a .300 average. Overall the team lacked hitting power as the average was only .208. Greg Fisher, Bill Mullholland and Bob Thompson also did a fine job in the home forces. The Dragons were aiming for a State A-1 berth, but a mid-season drought hurt the team as the batmen fell to sixth place in the league at one time. With only three seniors leaving, next year Coach Delmar Kerber's squad could make it to the state playoffs.

Female footballers scramble for a tackle during the annual 1968 powderpuff game. For awhile it appeared that the senior "Black Power" would once again prevail, but white-jerseyed juniors came on strong in the fourth period. The final buzzer read 20-20.

Ace-hurler Linda Krebs clears the last one as the versatile trackster accumulates points for another first.

Sporting a 5-1-1 season, the 1969 Dallas girls' track team proudly represented its school in the meets. The highlight of the season occurred when five squad members participating in three events qualified for the state track meet in Springfield. Finalists included the 440 relay team, consisting of Debbie Seaman, Linda Krebs, Janice Anderson and Belinda Kliever, Pam Chandler in the shot put, and Linda Krebs in the 220.

Sophomore Bev Douglas follows through as she energetically heaves her best of three on the shot.

Team captain Debbie Seaman sinks two for the Lady Dragons early in a win over McMinnville.

GIRLS SPORTS

Females Dominate

Girls' basketball 1968-69 proved to be a successful season, as the female hoopsters netted a 6-4 league record. The fifteen girl team was led by senior captain Debbie Seaman. Long hours of practice were held before and after school, as the girls prepared for the contests. All fifteen girls were awarded sports' letters at an awards assembly, as the highlight of the program saw Linda Krebs receive the "high point" honors.

"Hoopstress" center Shelley Dunham bats away the roundball from two Mac forwards.

Trudy Ingram clears the bar during Newberg-Tillamook three-way meet.

EDITORS' SWAN SONG

Excedrin Headache No. 9194

so little time has passed since an inexperienced group of students began the then awe some task of producing fifty years of contrasts of time grappling with the bleeds and gutters and other such yearbook jargon we began learning techniques we never knew existed things did not always come out as they were originally envisioned countless frustrations were confronted at each deadline ideas had to be translated and compromised defined and redefined our greatest enemy was time a year is very short

one of our major problems was squeezing dallas highs events into 180 pages the answer it seemed did not lie in displaying pages of students lined up on bleachers grinning mechanically into the camera this does not represent life and spirit of students thus we have attempted to capture the candid concept of people in action the way you see them and know them

thank you two short words but said with all the sincerity to those who have done so much to make this yearbook a success
evy for countless hours of writing reading and rereading copy sue for thousands of index words mechanically tapped out on the machine vicki for stepping in and taking over several times in the darkroom paul for being a good little photographer glenda for laying it out in superb fashion joyce for learning the trade of laying it on the line

jim for somehow conning businesses into purchasing more than $1000 worth of ads gayle for keeping the records straight bonnie and jane for having such good mugs cheri for managing the production department charlie for being on the ball in the sports section

our advertisers for trusting us
mr. palmer for occasionally coming to the rescue
mr. paffrath for humor and helpful suggestions to our mr. schiopen for patience time and everything else because without him we never could have made it from me sue to you the staff for tolerating me my temper and my pickie pickie methods and goals for our dragon there it is without the elaborate language the biggest thank you possible

*****

we are finished at last it is no longer our book alone although the staffs feelings of ownership lingers the memories are yours to keep

Jayne -

Since somehow I have ended up with your annual I'll write more. Your personality - mind, emotions - whatever you want to call it is captivating. There is no pat answer or statement one can make about you. Your sort of a happiness - you affect different people in many different ways - sort of suppliment them. Anyway I'm happy I had the opportunity & the experience. Be happy.

Many thanks

Dear Jayne,

To the one girl who truly deserves a medal-and flowers for all the good things she's been & done. Have so enjoyed you - don't forget the cafeteria
confs! Best wishes
in everything!

Love
Judy Ratliff
(69)

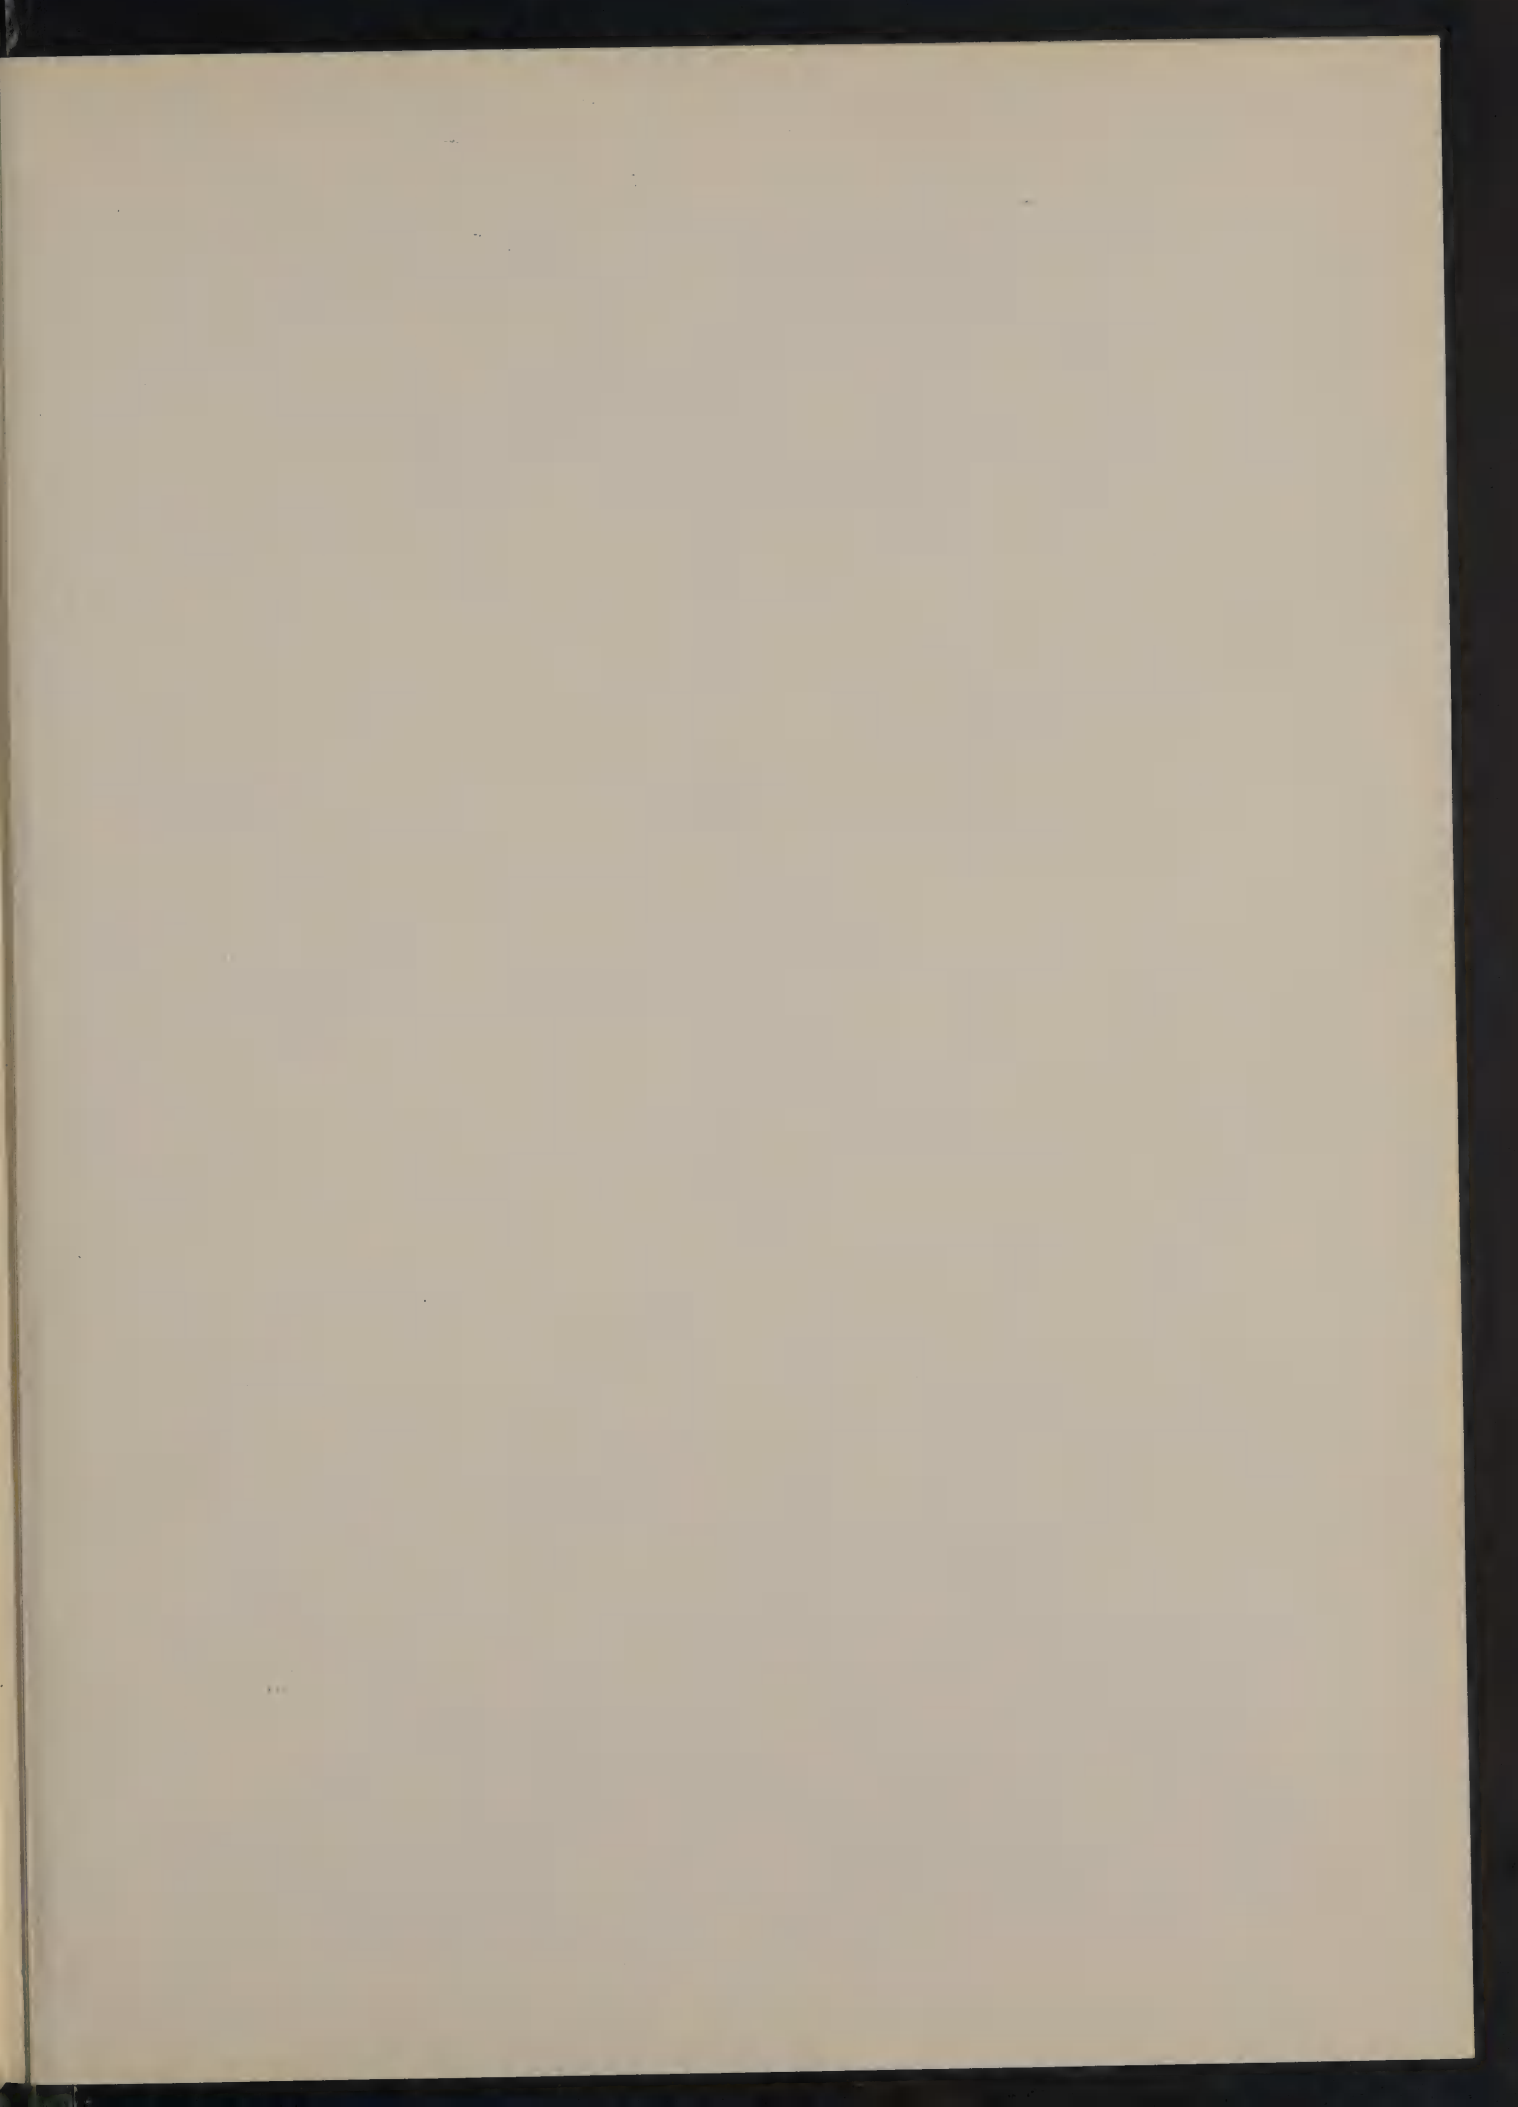

Jayne -
There isn't any thing I can say here that
I haven't said to you.
Let me put it simply -
your fantastic
Keep it up.
Many Hinds

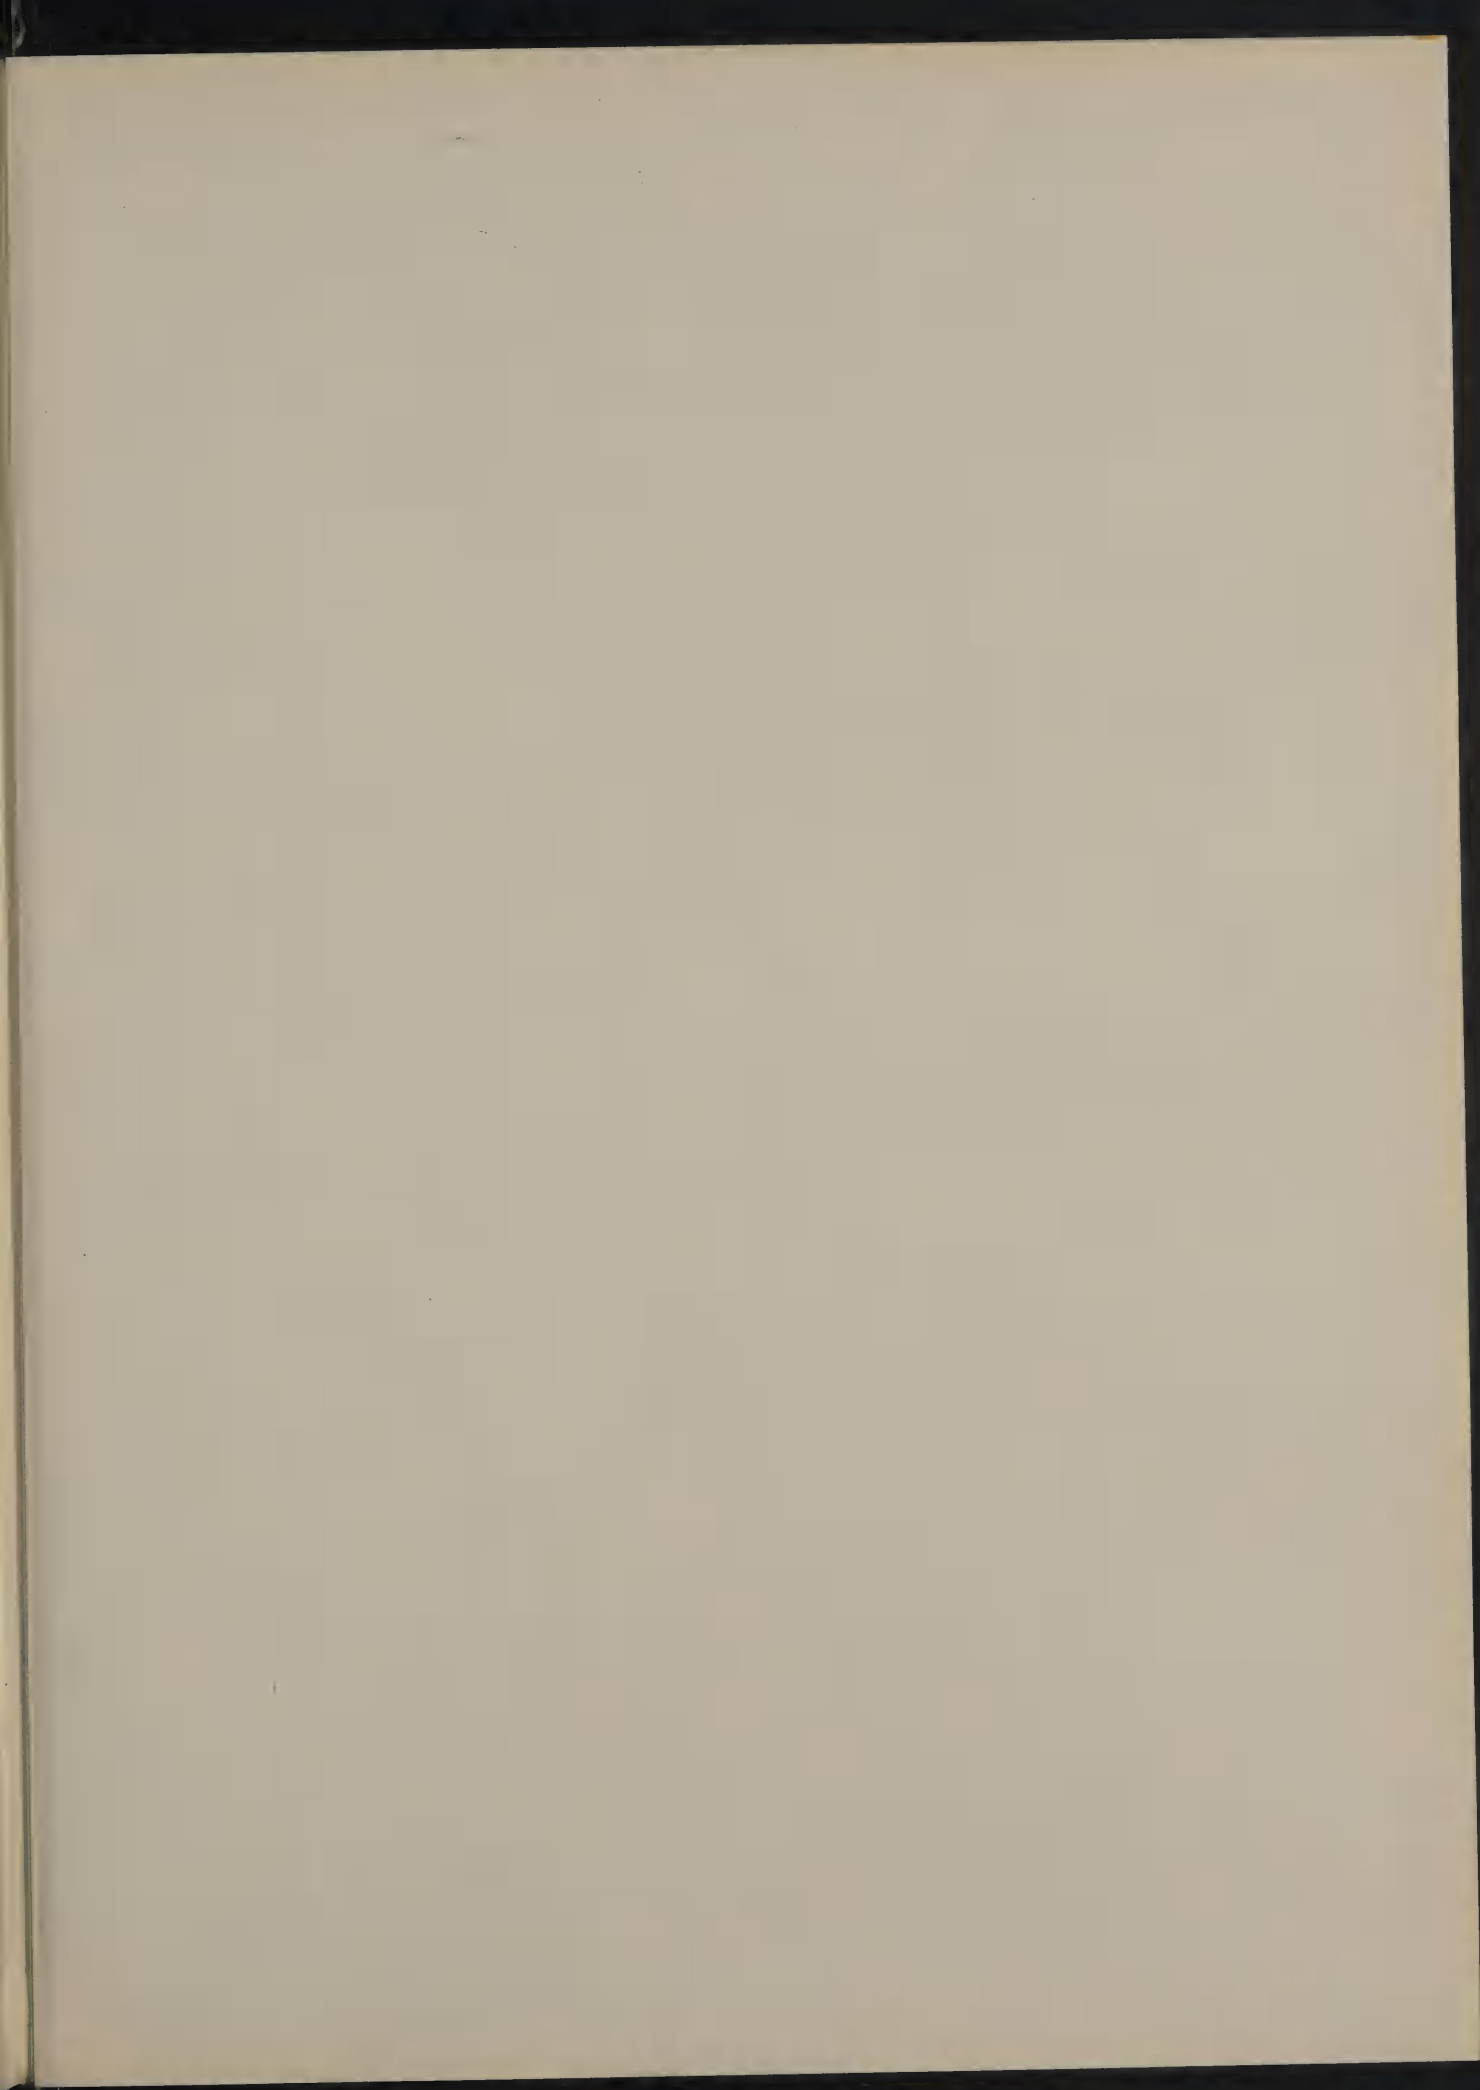

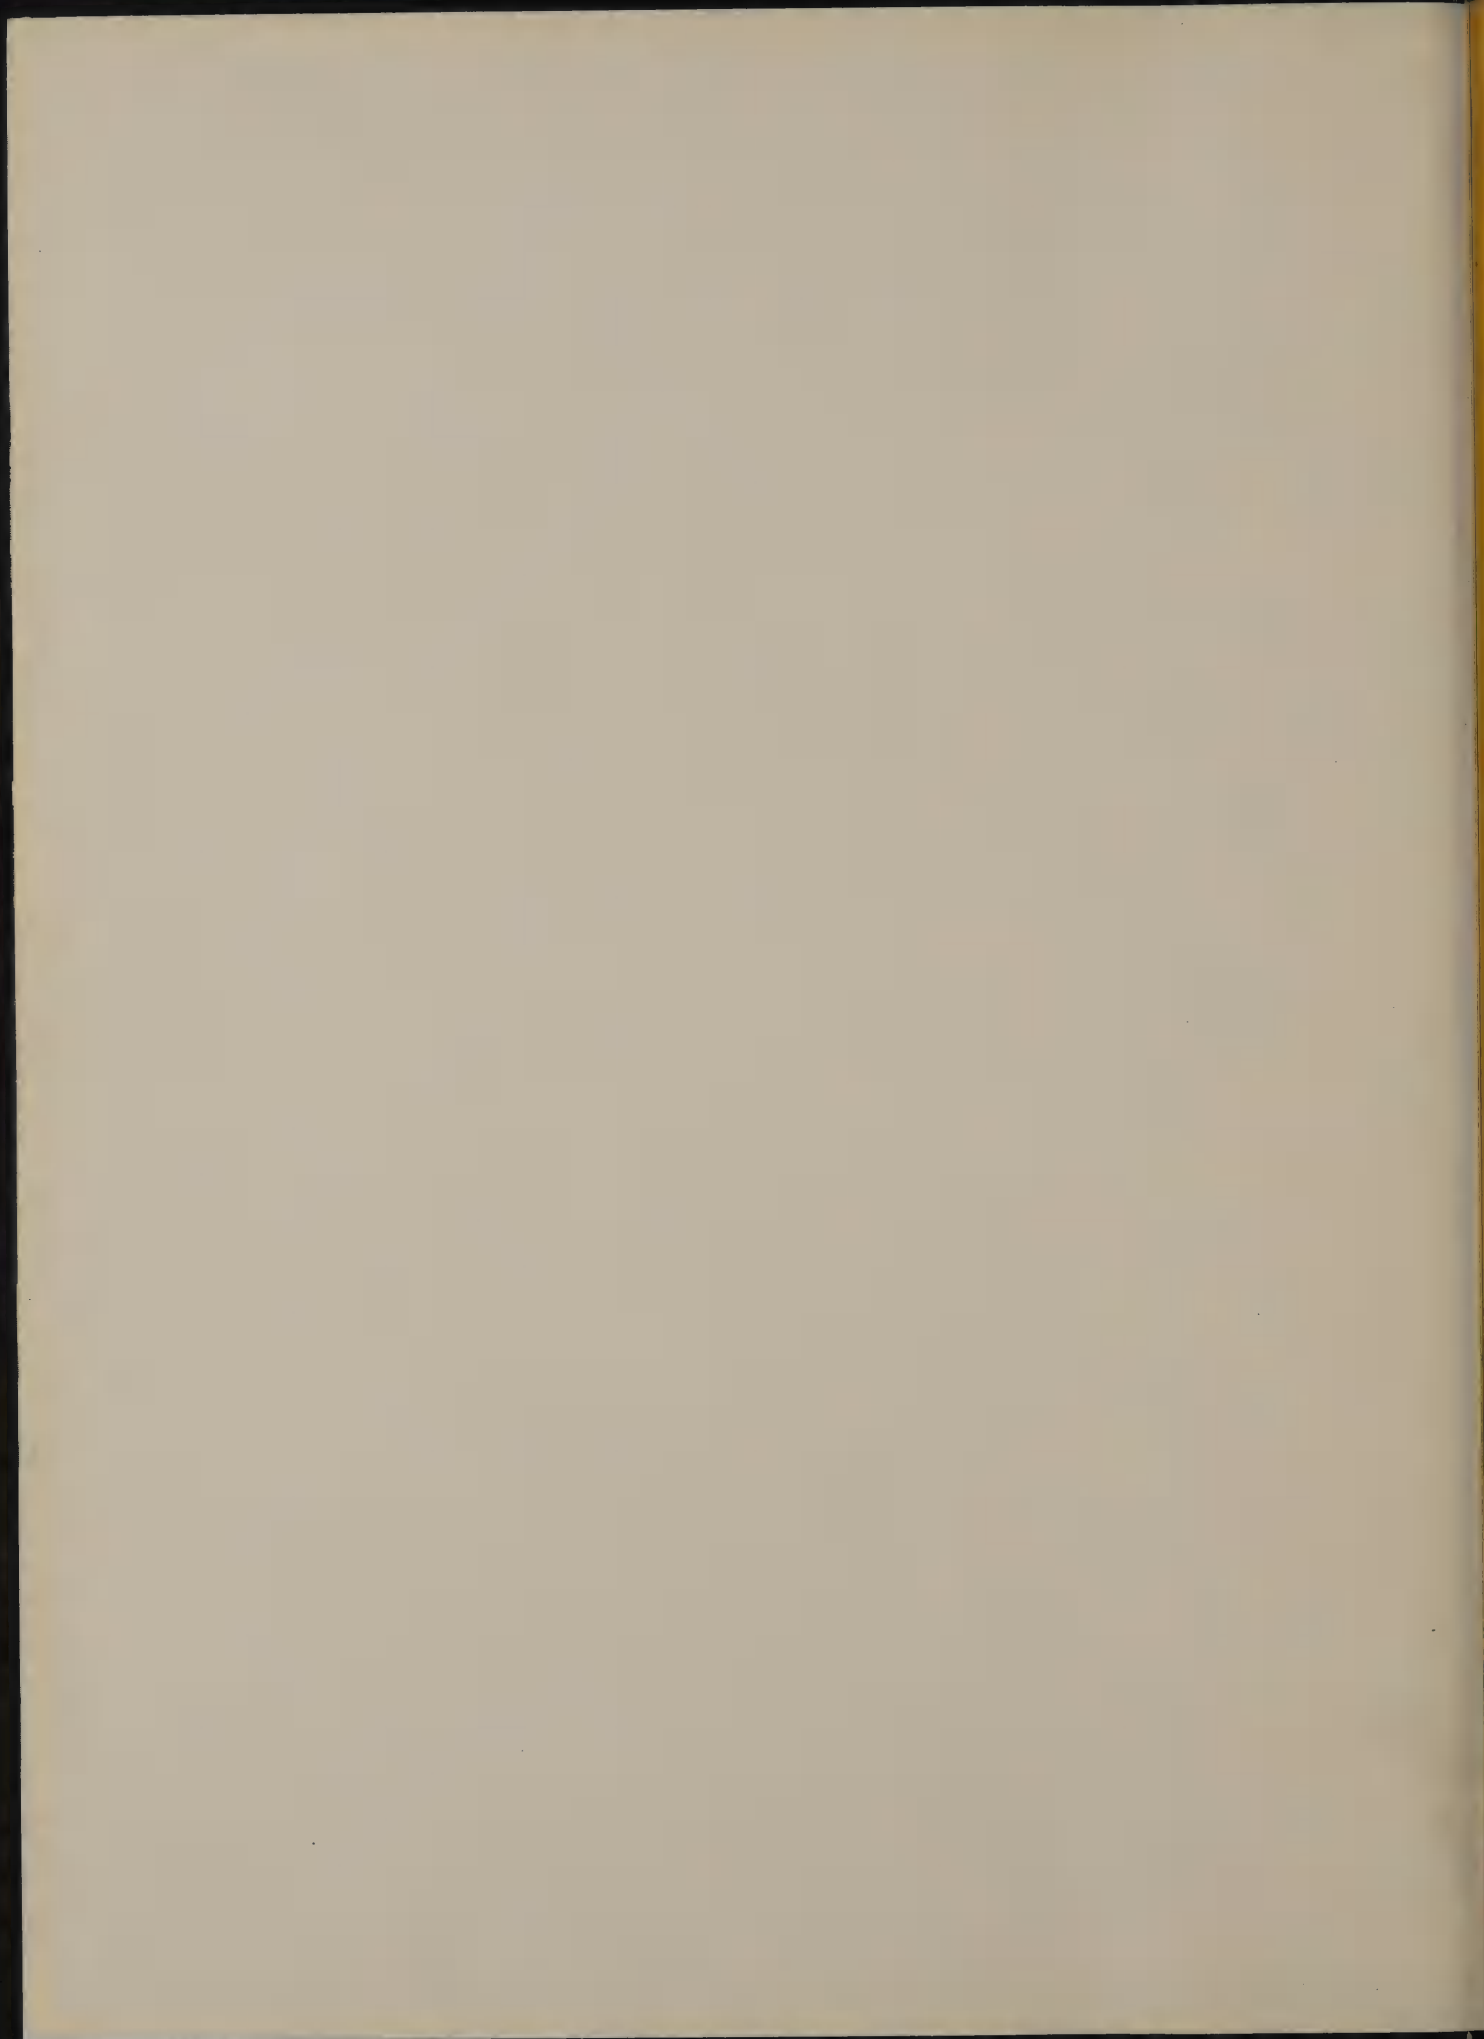

Dear Jayne,

I wish you were here Jayne, I miss you very much. Thanks for all the great memories. I won't forget anything we'll been through. You're very much a part of me, like all my wonderful friends. I won't forget any of you. I don't know how I became so lucky to have friends such as you. You're all great! I thank God for letting me alive to experience you all. Thanks so much for everything Jayne.
